A Consonant Blend is a group of 2 or 3 letters that blend together, yet each of the sounds are heard.

Some Consonants that you see together are a Consonant Blend, meaning every letter sound is heard, but they blend together.

Some are digraphs. "Di" meaning 2 and "graph" meaning written so, digraph means 2 written letters that make 1 sound.

For example: "lm" can be a Consonant Blend in words like helm, realm, and film. You can hear both the L "l" and the M "m" in those words, yet they blend together: 2 letters are written and 2 letters are heard.

The letters LM can also be a digraph in words like palm, calm, and psalm. In those words you do not hear the letter "l" even though it's seen - you only hear the letter "m." When you hear only 1 sound when 2 letters are written - it is a digraph.

Consonant Blends can appear at the beginning, middle, or end, of a word.

A Consonant Blend appears at the beginning of the words: skill, string, and spell.

A Consonant Blend appears in the middle of the words: explain, extra, and abstract.

A Consonant Blend appears at the end of the words: brisk, last, and grasp.
